iFilm (wp) is a high density polyester-based clear film coated on one side with a micro porous, Ink receptive coating. The capillary action micro porous coating absorbs the dye or pigment based inks and traps them instantly which provide fast drying. The coating is water resistant to prevent smearing under high humidity conditions.

The most important factor determining the image quality when making screen printing positives with inkjet printer is the coating on the film, and iFilm (wp)'s coating is best in the market and works extremely well with the off-the-shelf pigment or dye inks. The special micro porous coating on the 4mil clear polyester is best suited for fine lines and half tones alike. iFilm (wp) is specifically engineered for the creation of super quality film positives and negatives. When high density is necessary, iFilm(wp) is the ultimate choice.

iFilm (wp) is best suited to produce 4 color separations up to 65LPI (maybe higher) or spot color, direct from your Printer to Film.
